

Greetings & thanks for downloading...!

An illustration on how to use,

Kaelvikkenna Badhil Quiz Tool

What can this do...?

- ❑ This application is capable of creating MCQ quizzes that can be answered by (unique) respondents.
- ❑ The responses are automatically graded & the scores are displayed to the respondent, immediately upon the completion of the test.
- ❑ The scores of respondents are stored in a database, and can later be retrieved using the quiz locator.

- ❑ 'Kaelvikkenna Badhil' is distributed as a pair of independent executable files – North (for the asker) & South (for the answerer).
- ✓ If you've downloaded this as a zipped folder, please extract its contents into a separate folder before you start using it.
- ✓ Ensure that you've got the icon "purpleFlames.ico" in the folder that contains the executable files, else it'll crash on startup.

1) Posting a Quiz...

- ❑ If you are the one who's wanting to post a quiz (a set of MCQ questions), open the North.exe file.
- ❑ The screenshots attached will walk you through the process of uploading a quiz, along with its answer-key.
- ❑ REMEMBER! Your 'Q-Paper locator' is an unique identifier that points to your quiz. Note it down, as the respondents are required to enter it, in order to take the quiz.

3) Downloading Reponses...

- ❑ To download a list of the respondents (along with their scores), you will need to enter the 'Q-Paper Locator' into the North.exe file & click on the 'Post Questions' button.
- ❑ If at least one respondent had taken your quiz, then you can find a 'Download Responses' button, in addition to the warning message that says that your locator isn't unique.
- ❑ Click that & check the 'Downloaded Reponses' folder.

Constraints on the Tool...

- ✓ There can be any number of questions in a quiz and each question can have any number of options.
- ✓ Each question must have exactly one correct option.
- ✓ All the questions in a quiz carry equal weightage. The score is simply the number of questions that the respondent had gotten right. There is no complicated grading criteria put in place to evaluate the responses.

Take care...

Have a good day...

Thanks, bye...
